WAS ARRESTED AT YORK, PA.

Constable J. W. Mitchell Had Warrant for His Arrest But He Was Turned Over to Police Outside of the State.
A Dunbar Victim Also.Wanted in various Pennsylvania towns, including Connellsville, B. Frank Patterson was arrested Tuesday in York, Pa., on charges of false pretense. He was taken to Washington, D. C., and later turned over to the authorities at Atlantic City, N. J., according to advices received here. Patterson, it is stated, has accumulated a fortune by cashing bogus drafts. In Atlantic City, it is said, he collected no less than $5,000 during a brief stay.

Patterson is said to be a worked a prominent business man here for $100 and one in Dunbar for the same amount. There is but little chance of getting him here now that he has been turned over to the authorities by the State.

Patterson is a smooth, genteel looking old gentleman. He claims to be in the steel business. He also professes to be a G. A. R. man. His game is smooth and one hotel men are usual his victim. He lands in a new town with enough money to put on a good front. He is generous in his tips and has the appearance of wealth and prosperity. After getting fairly well acquainted he works the draft game and usually his drafts are cashed without the least difficulty. This process takes place about the time of his departure elsewhere and when the paper is found fraudulent he has disappeared.

Constable Mitchell has been working on the case in behalf of the local man. Mitchell traced the man to York but the authorities there turned him over to the Washington, D. C., authorities because of the larger claims in that city. Washington, in turn, will send him to Atlantic City for prosecution.

Exonerated
For Death of Buckeye LadSpecial to The Weekly Courier.
MT. PLEASANT, Sept. 29.—Coroner H. A. McMurry last evening held an inquest into the death of Joseph T. Niles, aged 19 years, who was run down by a Connellsville automobile near home September 21 and died in the Mt. Pleasant Hospital. The jury returned a verdict that the lad was accidentally killed.

The jury further exonerated V. H. Tolson, owner and driver of the machine, and J. D. McMurtry, who was a passenger, from all blame. The accident occurred along the public road about a mile East of Mt. Pleasant. The lad lived at Buckeye.

The inquest was held last evening in the undertaking rooms of King &amp; Rollins.

Between Two Assyrian Women.

As the result of a hair pulling which took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Ranie Nuclek on South Pittsburg street, Ranie was given a hearing this morning before Squiro P. M. Huttermeyer of the West Side on charge of assault and battery made by Miss Lizzie Ford at the request of her mother, Mrs. Lenora Ford. The prosecutor and defendant are Assyrians and the latter runs a fruit store on South Pittsburg street.

Mrs. Ford and her daughter alleged that Mrs. Ford's husband, Charles

Hearst Hands
Hot Roast to
Mayor GaynorUnited Press Telegram
PARIS, Sept. 29.—William Randolph Hearst, in an interview today, declared his positive conviction that the Democrats will nominate Major William J. Gaynor for Governor. He asserted he knew Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany boss, had arranged the nomination despite Gaynor's denials. Asked his opinion of Gaynor's statement, Hearst said:

That attitude is characteristic of Gaynor. I did not feel sure Gaynor was going to be nominated until he said he would not accept. Gaynor is peculiar. You have only to look on his doing exactly what he says he will not do.

I gave Gaynor honest associates in office. Gaynor ought to be grateful but unreasonable it may seem, Gaynor didn't want honest associates. He wanted Tammany crooks elected. Publicly he declared he would not accept unless they were elected.

I have come to know Gaynor better and thoroughly distrust him. He is an example of the shrewd, political trickster. I feel if the criminal trusts and corrupt bosses are driven out of the Republican party they will attempt to control the Democrats. I believe it is the duty of honest citizens particularly honest Democrats, to prevent the Democratic party from becoming the refuge of rogues and thieves.

Removed Trunk Hinges and Took Father's Roll

George Harvey, doing time in the borough lockup for a lag, was served a warrant this morning by Constable L. P. Crossland, charging him with the theft of $125 from his father, John Harvey of Vanderbilt. The prisoner will be given a hearing upon the return of Squiro W. P. Clark from Gettysburg.

It is alleged the young man removed the hinges from a trunk and re- moved the roll of greenbacks. The officers have been looking for him for some days past.

FIRE DESTROYS
WHEELER HOME.Double Dwelling, Occupied
by Mrs. Hews, Burned
Last Night.

OCCUPANT'S LOSS IS SLIGHT

All But Some Furniture in One Room Was Saved—Mrs. Hews Was to Have Moved Here Today—Other Side of Dwelling Uncounted.

Fire last evening totally destroyed the big double dwelling at Wheeler owned by the Wheeler Improvement Company. One side of the house was occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Hews and her two daughters. The first was discovered shortly before 9 o'clock. It originated in an unknown manner in the attic and had been burning some time before the flames broke through the roof and were discovered. At that time it is said a few buckets of water might have extinguished the blaze, but there was no way of reaching the roof. By the time ladders were secured the flames were beyond control.

Harms were turned in at Connellsville and the fire while roaring its summons to the fire fighters. The big whistle at the West Penn power house also joined in the saturnalia of noise made by the Connellsville whistles. The paid drivers and a number of volunteers, together with the West Side men, made good time to the scene but there was nothing to do but watch the blaze.

Mrs. Hews had most of her furniture packed, ready to move out of the house today. She was coming to Connellsville to live. The fire was discovered in ample time to remove everything from the house except some pieces of furniture in one room. Mrs. Hews' loss was but small. The other side of the house was vacated last week by E. C. Pierce of the West Side, who had been living there since last April.

Fortunately for Wheeler, the house stood alone in the center of a big yard. This saved isolating property for the breeze which blew was not strong enough to carry the flames across the intervening space to other property. A small outbuilding was burned along with the dwelling.

The fire was not without its amusing incidents. There is water at Wheeler, although no fire plugs are located there. Several residents hooked garden hose to hydrants and proceeded to wet down the fronts of their houses to keep the paint from blistering or the iron catching. Several men, armed with buckets mounted to haystacks and saved them from being destroyed.

The house was built a number of years ago at a cost between $1,000 and $2,000. It contained 10 rooms on each side, with running water, baths and modern improvements. The loss to the Wheeler Improvement Company is about $1,000 or $2,000. Rockwell Muelietts of the company said today he was not surprised there was insurance. While it is supposed there was insurance on the building, the policies are in the case of J. Melvin Gray and will not be available until his returns from the east. The iron remained on the scene until an early hour this morning, having only after all danger of the fire spreading was passed.

Mrs. Hews is the widow of R. S. Hews who kept a store at Wheeler for a number of years, first as manager for the Penn Traffic Company and later on his own account. He was born out about eight years ago.

W. D. Campbell, one of the local volunteer firemen, and Thomas Alder, manager for the Wheeler Improvement Company, were the last to leave the scene of the fire. They fought the flames until 6 o'clock this morning, leaving only after there was not the slightest possibility of the others being turned into a flame and spreading to the adjoining property. Campbell was one of the first to reach the fire from town and the last to leave.

OF DAWSON TO IDLY UP

Burgess J. C. McGill of Dawson has issued the following to the citizens of that borough: "Inasmuch as there is to be a celebration commemorating the the freeing of the bridge at Dawson on Saturday, October 5, I, J. C. McGill, call upon all business men and citizens of our borough to prepare for this gala event by cleaning up yards and streets and decorating their places of business and residence."

It is alleged the young man removed the hinges from a trunk and re- moved the roll of greenbacks. The officers have been looking for him for some days past.

ATTACKS THE TARIFF BILL

Boss Murphy Says There Is No State
But Shepard Is in the Lead For the Gubernatorial Nomination—Democrats
Want Peaceful Convention.United Press telegram.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Democratic State convention convened here at noon with Alton B. Parker temporary chairman, and Charles Murphy, Tammany boss, controlling Murphy says no slate has been prepared. The leaders desire a peaceful convention in contrast to that of the Republicans.

The platform will favor direct nominations along the lines of the bill Governor Hughes advocated. The platform attacks Republicans extravagance and the Tariff bill, blaming them for the high cost of living. Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn appears to be the leading gubernatorial candidate. Judge Parker in his opening speech attacked the Tariff, declaring that although the Republican platform of 1908 had not promised a reduction it was phrased so as to intimate that the party intended a revision downwards. Despite President Taft's appeal for a reduction the Republican national machine refused it. The Senate stood faithfully by the trust, corporations and individuals who are tariff beneficiaries and against the people. They did this in obedience to a corrupt National machine which for years has traded the rights of the people in return for money used to strengthen their machine and buy votes in doubtful districts. Judge Parker said the big corporations are useful and a majority are honestly conducted. The officers and the business system made others dishonest. He bitterly attacked what he termed Republican mismanagement of government affairs which he said has resulted in tremendous waste and abuse.

Walter Brookins Is Making Great Flight From Chicago to Springfield.

United Press Telegram.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 29.—Walter R. Brookins, the daring American aviator in Wright biplane, left Washington park at 9:15 today and will attempt to fly to Springfield, Ill., a distance of 187 miles. If successful he will win the Chicago Record Herald's $10,000 prize.

Between 50,000 and 75,000 people will be on hand and children, watching the start. When Brookins started to the crowd became unmanageable and swarmed the field. The biplane narrowly missed many.

Brookins circled the park three times before following the Illinois Central tracks at an altitude of 860 feet. Fifty automobiles and a special train with Wilbur Wright and a repair party on board followed the aviator.

GILMAN, Ill., Sept. 29.—(Special) Brookins passed here at 11:25. He is 80 miles from Chicago.

and There is Danger of More.

FOUR NEW CASES IN TOWN

Two Italian Families Are Affected
Together With Two West Side
Families—Physician Says It Is Impossible to Observe Precautions.

One new case of typhoid fever has been reported from Indian Creek, making nine cases in that community at present. Every effort is being made by the attending physicians to prevent a spread of the disease.

The party did not expect to come back until this evening but all of them were tired out after the rather strenuous time and cut the visit short.

Those who came back last night were W. P. Clark, C. H. Whitley, William Shaw, Ned Skore, William Axels, A. Dietrich, H. M. Koir, Lot Rush, Josiah Murray and William Bell.

The soldiers went from Gettysburg to Cumberland over the Western Maryland and caught No. 5 in the Queen City.

There is some danger of the river water being polluted from typhoid germs in spite of the precautions that have been taken. As one physician stated today, it is easy to lay down stringent restrictions to prevent a spread of this disease but hard to have these strictly observed by those who should be most interested.

The latest case reported is that of George C. Moore, aged 9 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moore. The father is the engineer at the McFarland Lumber Company's saw mill.

The information charges violation of the national anti bucket shop law. George Graham Rice, an ex-convict and prominent in the firm, was also arrested. The company operated branches in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Detroit, Milwaukee and Providence.

The police raided the Philadelphia and Boston offices this morning.

RUNAWAY CAR.

At Wampum, Pa., killed one and seriously injured another.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 29.—(Special)—A runaway car loaded with several tons of limestone struck a stone crusher in the foot of a three hundred foot incline at Wampum to day and killed William Shadlock, aged 41, and seriously injured his brother, Charles, aged 29.

Printer in Hospital.

Charles Runyon aged 41 years, and a printer by trade, was struck, he claims, by Dr. J. G. Kerr's automobile on North Pittsburg street last Monday night and was removed to the Cottage State hospital last night for treatment of his injuries. His knee is slightly cut. Dr. Kerr states that Runyon fell getting out of the machine's way. At the time Dr. Kerr was driving not over five miles an hour.

Telephone Cable
Drops in River;
200 Phones Out

One of the big cables of the American Union Telephone Company, crossing the Youghiogheny river, fell during the night, throwing about 200 telephones out of commission. Manager Walter T. McCormick stated that the damage will be repaired by tonight.

In falling the cable tore down several electric light wires and two or three wires of the Baltimore &amp; Ohio railroad. Communication on the telephone wires was restored later in the day.

Owing to the accident the cables of the West Side phones were out of commission today.

MOST RADICAL PLATFORM

Ever Written Adopted by Wisconsin Republicans in Convention, Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 29.—The most radical platform ever adopted by any state Republican convention was adopted at the closing of the state convention. La Follette for president in 1912 is the spirit of the introduction and other features of the platform are:

Condannation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff; physical valuation of railroads and more stringent regulation of them; initiative, referendum and recall; graduated income and home rule in the liquor traffic; national control of natural resources; allowing of combinations of farmers and trade unions to raise prices; employer liability laws; regulation of working hours of women and children.

50% of the Population of the U. S. live in rural districts remote from physicians, or drug stores, and they are obliged to do and upon primitive medicine to a very great extent.

To the women in these homes such standard remedies as Lydia L. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound come as a boon and a blessing. Records know that it has cured more women of those dread fevers than any other remedy.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. Shup's Reception.

Handsome decorations marked a large and well appointed reception at which Mrs. B. S. Shup and her son, Mrs. Elsie Skiff were joint hostesses yesterday afternoon at their home on North Pittsburgh street. The hours were from 2 until 5 o'clock. The affair was one of the largest, social function of the season, over 100 guests being present. The parlor, where the receiving party was situated, the dining room and the reception hall were converted into a bower of beauty for the occasion. There was no distinctive color scheme, fall flowers in all colors being lavishly used. The mantals were banked with masses of Killarney roses, mistletoe, asters while one of the prettiest features of the decorations were portions of tulles, roses and nasturtiums, showers of tulles and the same flowers descended from the chandeliers.

John L. Davis and Miss Olive A. Morris were married yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Morris on Murphy Avenue. There were no attendants and only the immediate relatives of the young couple witnessed the ceremony. Rev. J. S. Boyce of Brookfield officiated and the bride wore a dainty gown fashioned of white muslin and trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of roses. After a wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Davis went to Smithfield to visit the bride's mother, Mrs. J. S. Morris. The bridegroom is employed in the office of the United States Express Company.

ADVERTISING.
THE DAILY COURIER is the only daily newspaper in Connellsville and its region which has the honesty and courage to print a daily report under oath of the exact number of copies printed for distribution. Other papers put forth some extraneous claims, but never give any definite figures. Advertising rates

THE VERDICT.

IN THE SMITH CASE.

"Not guilty by reason of insanity." Is the verdict in the stubbornly-contested and long-drawn-out trial of B. Frank Smith charged with the murder of his father, Daniel Porter Smith, and his brother-in-law, Evans W. Moser, on the night of February 21, 1910.

The testimony showed that Smith laid in wait for his father and shot him down with a rifle. After committing this bloody deed, he proceeded to the residence of his brother-in-law, announced to his sister his intention of killing her husband, hunted the latter down and shot him to death with the same weapon used in killing his father. The only motive indicated for the murderer was the fact that the father contemplated marrying again. The family disapproved Moser had talked with Frank Smith about it. The theory was advanced that Frank was with rage killed his father and then with remorse killed his brother-in-law, unreasonably blaming the latter for his unnatural act in slaying his father.

This motive was urged in support of the prosecution's demand for a verdict of murder in the first degree, the actions under it all indicating deliberate and premeditated murder. Smith's bushwhacking of his father at night, or "lying in wait" for him as the law expresses it, is legal presumption of premeditation, and his deliberate announcement that he intended to kill his brother-in-law is also evidence of deliberate murder.

The defense might have pleaded for a verdict of murder in the second degree under the same testimony, since it indicates that the defendant might reasonably be presumed to have beenaboring under intense excitement and killed "in hot blood"; but such a defense, if successful, would have meant a long term of years in prison, and its success was more than problematical.

The defense of insanity was evidently regarded as a better defense to set up. It was supported by the testimony of a number of reputable witnesses, who testified that Smith had sometimes acted queerly. Medical testimony was introduced to show that Smith was suffering from delusional insanity or monomania, which is defined as a "chronic, incurable" and generally progressive form of insanity characterized by persistent and fixed delusions.

The jury accepted this view of the matter and rendered the verdict accordingly. The verdict does not set Smith at liberty. As Judge Van Slychken explained in his lucid and sparkling charge to the jury, "It is then made the duty of the court to order him to be kept in custody so long as he shall continue to be of unusual mind."

Smith will, therefore, be committed to an insane asylum, and there kept in custody "so long as he shall continue to be of unusual mind."

How long will that be?

Some good citizens, who disapprove of the verdict, and who are not of the opinion that Smith was not and is not now mad, and that he should have been hung, voice the view that he must necessarily soon be turned loose again upon the community.

If, however, the experts who have passed upon his mental condition are correct in their diagnosis, he will never emerge from incarceration, because he is madly as "chronic, incurable and generally progressive."

PENNSYLVANIA'S PICTURESQUE POLITICS.

"Politics makes strange bedfellows," is an old and true observation, and if all the grapevine speculations from the underground world of politics are true, Pennsylvania is furnishing some confirmations of the fact in this campaign.

In the beginning it was alleged that the political firm of Pearson & Guttay controlled the two great parties of Pennsylvania and dictated their nominations, platforms and policies. The conventions met and nominated two very excellent tickets with the full consent of regularly chosen delegates elected by the people at a direct primary, if there was any business at Harrisburg or at Allentown, it was obviously with the consent of the people, and from their decision there is no appeal.

But there are some excellent citizens in the State who still protest that the people had been deceived, and that it was their patriotic duty to rescue them from the crushing grasp of the machine, so they met again, and their delegation being self-appointed, and formed another party, which they called the Keystone Party. In their convention was one William H. Berry, a Democrat who pledged himself to the Democratic ticket at Allentown, but who changed his mind at Philadelphia to accept the nomination of the Key stoners for Governor.

As time went on it developed that neither Webster Grinn, the Democratic candidate, nor William H. Berry, the Keystone candidate, had any show of election; and then Ernest F. Acheson of Washington county and Hon. William J. Brennan of Allegheny county, representatives of the Keystone and the Democratic parties, formed the political partnership of Acheson & Brennan and proposed to eliminate the Democratic and Keystone tickets and nominate a fusion ticket headed by Justice S. J. Mestrezat, David T. Watson or George W. Guthrie.

It was a wonderful plan for the laying down of the axes and the lances, but thus far it has failed to stir any keynote hard enough to admit an audience, and we now await the next trial.

The West Penn Railways Company, of the West Penn section, has a plan of its own, like its namesake (occasionally, but it is the same huky proposition, like the small boy, it grows little every year, and some day quite to its full size). The project is to extend from Greencastle to Latrobe and another from Brownsville down the Monongahela as far as Ligonier, 100 miles from McKeesport to Greencastle, Connellsville, Uniontown, Brownsville and thence to the place of beginning, McKeesport.

The big stick is still in evidence. Civil Service is spreading. In the public service there is no better attempt on the part of postal officials to avoid the contagion.

Tom Lewis hasn't the chink of Sam Gompers.

Compliment is made that the reconvocation at Gettysburg during the big soldiers' meeting was not good, but that is not the fault of the people. It is not a big place and cannot be expected to take care of a big crowd and give first-class entertainment to all.

The Pennsylvania wreck was one of the lucky variety.

Death lurks everywhere, even in the usual cantoupe.

Walt Marion, the poet, was reported dead in the newspapers recently, and there is nothing in the story. I am with you still with time and circumstance. When I elect to write my way to glory, I hope to warn the people in advance, so that they will not be shocked. I am sorry to report that I would like to sleep a thousand years, and join the shining ranks of the departed afar from toll and tangloot and tears. And then a chill comes over me, which reaches me to the bone, and which I am afraid I could die some day.

It would come and make a string of conservation speeches until the music of the muted drum.

Between unions and reunions this is a pretty thoroughly union country.

The resignation of one of Connellsville's efficient men is fresh proof that the job is not the finest in the working world.

The Western Maryland is developing some undesirable citizens in the shape of Italian banditti. Thus far the banditti have practiced only upon their own countrymen. But they should not be permitted to hold up anybody.

The Irwin coal region is being "shot up" from time to time in a regular Wild Western way.

The announcement from McKeesport that the coal and coke at Glenwood shops to Versailles and electricity the line from that point to Pittsburgh, propounds the inquiry, Why not keep the shop at Glenwood and electrify the line from that point to Pittsburgh?

The Best Values Possible

Fall Suits at $25

There's Satisfaction in Knowing That
Your Suit's a Style Leader and Well Worth the Price. As Much Can Be Said of Any of These.

They are suits that are really good values at $35, but the lowness of price isn't the main attraction. It's the suits themselves, the high class materials, the faultless tailoring and correct style lines. The season is far enough advanced that the suit question should have serious thought, that's why we are anxious to have you see these. They come in worsteds and cheviots and are practically plain tailored, coats proper length and skirts with only sufficient pleating to give them fullness. Lined only with Skinner's satin. Slight button and braid effects are shown and some have wide cuff, slant pocket and silk collar. Sizes range from 14 years to size 42. Great at this price $25.00

Fall Coats.—So far, a good assortment of styles on hands in serge, heavy diagonals and broadcloths in styles suitable for auto, street or fine dress. Also, a good collection of cravette rain coats. All sizes, good fitting and tailoring the best. Don't fail to ask about the new "Presto" collar.

New Dresses.—In light and dark shades suitable for street or evening wear. They come in fine silk materials. French serges, voiles, etc., with beautiful yoke and braided effects. Many of these show the narrow skirt with folds or wide bands and button trimming.

We have just received shipments of Misses' and Children's Coats and Dresses in a full line of sizes.

All Alterations Free of Charge.

Turned Off at Scottdale.

PREPARATIONS ARE BEING MADE

For the Big Evangelistic Campaign
Which Is to Be Held in the Mill Town, the First Meeting Taking Place on October 7.

Speech to the Courier.
SCOTTDALE, Sept. 29.—There is one good thing that the threat of the Fayette County Gas Company that it is going to shut off the gas here on Friday morning, December 16th has accomplished and that is it has started the people to thinking what they shall substitute for gas. There is quite a discussion going on now over the proposition to revivify the gas testing company that several years ago bored for gas along Jacobs Creek, out beyond Chalmette, on the creek hills.
At that time there was struck a small quantity of gas that gave encouragement, although the well was abandoned.
Now the talk is for boring a test well or so much nearer town. Those who have studied the question assert that just beyond Scottdale to the west the line directly between the producing of gas fields passes and that there should be a profitable spot to sink a well. Anyone who is willing to take a speculative chance would be in a position to learn something and possibly to their great profit. The subject of an artificial gas plant is also being considered. It is said that there are men in Scottdale, who would be ready to finance such a proposition.
Anyway the gas company does not come to a town where the people give up right away when they see the big stick a-wink.

A Chorus of 200,
The work of preparation for the Davis and Mills evangelistic campaign is in full activity and everyone connected with getting the movement up and running started in town to do their share. The stool tabernacle has not arrived, but in a letter J. A.
Davis says the new structure will be the finest of its kind for the purpose in the world.

The singers of town are invited to join the choir which will consist under the leadership of W. J. Burkell in the Y. M. C. A. room this evening.
Mr. Mills, the singer, and his wife will be here tomorrow evening, for their preliminary work with the musical end of the revival, a choir of 200 voices to be a feature of the meetings.
There will be a special meeting for all the ministers, members of committees, singers, workers and all the workers on Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal Church at 3:15 o'clock, with the outlines of the meetings will be given. The first meeting of the campaign will take place in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, and will be a united service joined in by all the churches of town.

Operation Performed.
An operation for appendicitis was performed on Miss Mabel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Short at the Mt.
Pleasant Hospital on Tuesday. Drs.
L. T. Gilbert, E. P. Weddell and S. B.
Gray of town were the operating physicians. Miss Short is getting along splendidly.

Clerical Officers.
The Christian Endeavor Society of the United Evangelical Church has elected their officers for the coming year: President, Sherman Bittner;
Vice President, L. E. Dillon; Secretary, Mrs. H. B. Seeger; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Elmira Wall; Treasurer, Miss Josie Logan; Organist, Miss
Sarah Logan; Assistant Organist, Mona Sprinkle. On account of the coming evangelistic services the pastor, Rev. H. E. Scott, announced that the installation of the officers will take place on Tuesday evening at 6:30. Prayer meeting will be held during the services at 6:30 on Wednesday evenings, and Sunday school at 2:30 on Sunday afternoon. The preliminary services will be Sunday evening at 6:30.

Stepped on a Nail.
J. D. Porter, a well known farmer near Overdale, stepped on a rusty nail yesterday, inflicting a painful and dangerous wound.

The Big Store Opening.
Miller's, the big store, will have their annual opening this afternoon and evening, when all the latest styles will be shown. There will be a pleasant musical program rendered and everyone is invited to spend a pleasant afternoon and evening in the big store.

Concludes the Year.
Rev. Archibald Auld, the pastor, will preach his last sermon before going to Conference at the Wesley Chapel at 10:30 Sunday morning and at the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal Church at 7 o'clock Sunday.

An Open Meeting.

The Independent Order of Americans will hold an open meeting in their hall in the Elkhorn & Grant hall tomorrow evening, at which some of the State officers will be present, a new feudal program will be rendered and refreshments served.

To Install Lodge.

A lodge of the Royal Neighbors will be instituted here on Tuesday evening with 25 members, starting the organization, which is a fraternal one for women, with a good membership.

Republicans of New York Select Candidate for Governor.

It is auxiliary to the M. W. A. as members of that order are also eligible for membership.

Poultry Meeting Tonight.

The Scottdale Poultry and Pet Stock Association will hold a regular meeting tonight in Justice J. C. Steiner's office where more consideration will be given the premium list for the poultry show in December. Arrangements for this are coming along very well and the show promises to be one of the highest class.

The New House.

Another new house is being added to the large number along the extension from Pittsburg street west of town. Edward Anderson who has returned from Kansas is digging the foundation for a handsome residence of eight rooms. With this home the line of houses is very nearly built up to the public square, a court of honor is being erected, and decorations are going up fast all over the town. An outline of the week's program follows.

Sunday, Oct. 2—Church day. Special services in the various churches, morning and evening. Sunday school rallies, Y. M. C. A. meeting afternoon.
Prominent speakers: monster chorus.

Monday, Oct. 3—Welcome Day.
Informal reception, first aeronautics ights, Wright Brothers, operated by Walter Brookins.

Tuesday, Oct. 4—Historical Day.

athletie, professional actor; in eos-tume, automobile parade, aeronautics ights, Walter Brookins, W. & J.
Glee Club, 8 P. M.

Wednesday, Oct. 5—Educational Day.
Address, Dr. D. T. Watson, Nathan
C. Schaefer, Joe Mitchell, Chapelle, Roy L. Ross, Parade school and college, educational exercises, football game, girls' band contest, aeronautics ights, Walter Brookins reception at college gymnasium.

Thursday, Oct. 6—Industrial Day.
Mammuth piano, labus and military organizations, free barbecue, G. A. R. campfire, field meet at College Athletic park, Wright Brothers aeronautics.

Friday, Oct. 7—Distinguished Visitors Day. Address, Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, W. J. Pittington of Des Moines, Ia., and others.
Parade of fraternal organizations,
Wright Brothers' aeroplano.

Saturday, Oct. 8—Agricultural Day.
Program to be prepared by leading farmers of Washington and Greene counties, expected to be the most elaborate agricultural celebration, with prizes for exhibits and demonstration.

That is the substance of what the president told T. J. Nolan, general secretary and treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dragmen.

A GREAT FOUNDRY

To Be Built by Westinghouse Company
at Trafford City.

Plans have been completed and contracts are soon to be awarded for a brand new industrial plant for Pittsburgh, which will mean the investiture of approximately $3,000,000 in buildings and upon their completion the employment of at least 3,000 men, most of whom will be skilled mechanical, driving high wages. The proposed plant is the immense foundry of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, now scattered and which will be located on 70 acres of ground recently purchased by the company at Trafford City, not far from the foundry of the Westinghouse Machine Company.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Christian Haug and children their friends for the kind sympathy and assistance rendered them during the late bereavement, the death of their father and husband, Christian Haug of the Davis Coal & Coke Company grows, as it is believed it will, the company will charter other vessels and increase the storage capacity at Texas City, and may establish a coal distributing plant at Galveston.

THE KEYSTONE TEAM AND MORGAN TO PLAY

Game Will Be Called on Saturday Afternoon Promptly at 3 o'clock.

Special to The Courier.
OWENSBORO, Sept. 29.—The Keystone of Scottdale will play the Morgan
A. C. Saturday afternoon at the Vogel grounds. Manager Elcher of the Keystones has a hulky bunch of bull tossers and promises to give M.
A. C. a hard run. The Keystones beat the Blue Ridge League team in a good game recently and Manager Elcher says he will also carry away Morgan's trophy. However, this remains to be seen.

Ray Klingensmith will be on the firing line for M. A. C. while "Milk" Cobbs will do the rapid fire work for the Keystones. The game will begin at 3 o'clock. The Keystones will hold a field party and festival the same evening on their home grounds at Ringview. Extensive preparations have been made and the affair promises to be a big success, to this end the M. A. C. lads will do their part in assisting. Everybody is invited to attend.

Head Blown Off By an Explosion at Orient, Pa.

By the bursting of the high pressure steam line at the Orient works yesterday morning at 10:45 o'clock, Jacob Vorenman was instantly killed and Chauncey Shipley, a machinist, received a painful cut on the right arm besides a number of bruises. Dick Adams, who was standing at Foreman's side, escaped injury. Foreman was standing between Adams and Shipley when the accident occurred.
The men were discussing the high pressure line when without warning there was a loud report and Foreman's head was literally blown off. Blood and flesh were scattered in every direction and Foreman's body fell to the floor. The other two men were stunned but recovered in a short time.
Coroner Harry J. Bell was notified of the accident. No cause is assigned for the bursting of the high pressure three-inch line. The power house in which the explosion occurred, was slightly damaged.

Mr. Foreman resided at Trotter for a number of years. He is a brother of Mrs. John Shives and Clarence Foreman of Trotter. His widow and several children survive in addition to one brother and two sisters. He had resided in Orient for three years. Mrs.

TO SAVE MINERS.

What Other Countries Are Doing in Rescue Station Work.

Experimental work conducted in a Yorkshire colliery, with a view to solving the problem of rescue work, where it was sought to produce such conditions as prevail in a mine after a disaster, by the construction of a large colliery filled with deadly fumes, and obstacles to imitate fallen roof, sides, etc., placed in the way of rescue corps, into which colliers, well equipped with breathing apparatus that can a result six rescue stations have been established in England, one in Wales, one in Scotland, and a dozen more in project in various parts of the United Kingdom.

In Austria the law requires a pneu-matothorax to be kept in order and readiness for every 100 miners employed.
The Government permits the coal owners the choice of four approved types of breathing apparatus, but the mining office may authorize the use of any new appliance approved in future.

In the different States and districts of Germany the regulations vary according to the natural conditions of the mines, but as evidence of the stringency of the law it may be mentioned that no fewer than 700 sets of breathing appliances are kept ready for use in the Dortmund district alone, and in the Breslau district no mine has less than two sets, the Government mining engineer being empowered to order any number he deems fit.
In France all mines employing more than 100 persons under ground upon one shift must be furnished with breathing apparatus, the number ranging from two to six per mine, according to size, gassy nature, number of workers, etc., and double breathers of not less than eight trained men must be kept for every set of rescue appliances.

In Holland, a number of miners must be trained to rescue work, and sets of apparatus must equal one for every 50 miners employed.

In Belgium there must be a breathing appliance for every 200 underground workers in every mine of the second and third degree, with trained rescue brigades of not less than four men per set of apparatus. A leading company is organizing a well equipped rescue station, staffed with 25 picked and trained men, who know every inch of the company's mines.

Colonel Charles N. Daniels reports that an English engineer in charge of experiments in Sheffield for the prevention of coal dust explosions estimates that the cost of laying coal and stone dust to make the former non explosive, would be about $292 per 1,000,000 tons of coal raised.

WAS LIBERAL IN GIFTS OF STOCK.

Osterman Passed Blocks Over to Illinois Central Officials.

TESTIFIES IN' GREAT TRIAL

Head of Company Which is Alleged to Have Played Prominent Part in Gigantic Swindle Reveals Secrets. Gives Names of Officials Involved.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Henry C. Osterman, former head of the Osterman Manufacturing company, alleged by the prosecution to have taken a prominent part in the car repairs swindle by which the Illinois Central lost over $1,000,000, appeared in Judge Drugmeyer's court and testified in the hearing of the Illinois Central, which charges against Frank H. Harriman, John M. Taylor and Charles L. Ewing former officials of the road.

Osterman said Ira G. Rawn, late vice president of the road, was a purchaser of stock in the Osterman Manufacturing company to the extent of 1,500 shares. The shares, he said, were transferred to Mr. Rawn through Joseph E. Baker.

Osterman told how when he was a car inspector he invented a patent grain doot and the Osterman Manufacturing company was incorporated.

"Did you give any stock of this company to the officials of the Illinois Central?" asked Walter L. Fisher.

"I sent a certificate for 1,000 shares to Mr. Taylor in June, 1906," said Osterman referring to J. M. Taylor, one of the defendants.

Stock Held by Officials.

Other officials of the Illinois Central, he declared, held stock in the Osterman Manufacturing company as follows: William Renshaw, 1,500 shares; Joseph Baker, 2,300, and Frank B. Harriman, 2,200.

In addition to these holdings Walter L. Fisher produced stock certificates for 1,500 shares made out to Osterman himself, amounts ranging from 100 to 1,000 shares each, and it is endorsed by him in black.

The inference was that this stock was given away to individuals whose friendship was desired by the company. Osterman said that out of his 2,200 shares he had 31,200 left after his various donations.

The secret of how the stock certificates came into possession of the prosecution and made possible the disclosure of the inner organization of the company came out during the examination.

Attorney Fisher said that they were part of the papers found by the receiver who was recently appointed for the company.

LEGS BURNED TO CRISP

Two Workmen Caught in Hot Molten Metal at Youngstown, O.

Youngstown, O., Sept. 29.—Donald Cunha and Tony Antoff, workmen at the No. 2 furnace of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube mill, were caught in a stream of white hot metal and before they were rescued they sustained injuries which will result in their death.

Workmen were trying to remove the stopper at the entrance of the furnace to make a cast when it fell out suddenly and the metal began pouring out of the furnace. The two laborers were at work in the pit and within a few moments they were completely surrounded by the molten metal, but not until the lower portion of the victim's legs were almost burned to a crisp. That they escaped being burned to death is considered miraculous.

DETERMINED FISTIC BATTLE

Polks Engage in Fight While House is Burning.

Pittsburg, Sept. 29.—Locking themselves in a room that there might be no interference in their frantic duel Peter Slurgis and Joseph Shilohs Polks, waged a long and desperate struggle at their boarding house. A lamp was knocked from the table, but the combatants paid no attention to it and as the oil soaked into the floor and blazed up they continued their struggle to death. The fight was considered miraculous.

Other boarders in the house burst open the door and worked to put out the flames but the fighters still kept at each other. Even the entrance of a policeman had no effect on the battle and it was not until the flames had been extinguished that the fighters were separated.

Butler (Pa.) Man Asks Damages of Alleged Despoiler of Home.

Butler, Pa., Sept. 29.—Alleging his home was despoiled, Fred W. Libby of Walker avenue, an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has filed a suit against Harry L. Wilson, a local business man, for $10,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of Libby's wife. This suit follows the filing of a libel in divorce, naming Wilson as co-respondent.

A year ago Mrs. Ada B. Wilson obtained a divorce from Harry L. Wilson on the ground of barbarous treatment.

STATE MUSEUM

At Harrisburg Institution in Which Citizens Should Be Interested:

There is an institution of the State that has been established exclusively for the public, and for the benefit of every citizen in the Commonwealth. It is the State Museum at Harrisburg, where a collection is being made of every kind of mineral, animal, bird, insect, flower, specimen of tree, and historical relic from each county of the State.

Fayette county should be well represented in this institution which is laying a foundation invaluable for future years. The purpose of the various divisions of the museum is as follows: Division of Zoology. Where can be seen the animals in their respective haunts and natural surroundings; many valuable features for the agriculturist, where information may be obtained in reference to the birds, insects and animals of the locality that are helpful or destructive to crops.

Division of Geology.

Since Pennsylvania is rich in minerals, there should be placed before the people of the Commonwealth one of the best State mineral exhibits found in the Union. This should include mineralogy, paleontology and industrial geology. Each county in the State should be well represented by its respective minerals, the coal, iron, oil, clay, glass, sand, building stones, etc., with maps and charts showing where located. The educational and industrial should be closely allied to be of use to the Commonwealth. There should be maps, charts and fossils of the geological era, portraying the earliest formations known, including the glacial period, upthrusts, mountain and valley making, rivers and lakes of the State, with relief maps and models showing formations, etc.

A Division of Botany.

Since Pennsylvania is rich in minerals, there should be placed before the people of the Commonwealth one of the best State mineral exhibits found in the Union. This should include mineralogy, paleontology and industrial geology. Each county in the State should be well represented by its respective minerals, the coal, iron, oil, clay, glass, sand, building stones, etc., with maps and charts showing where located. There should be maps, charts and fossils of the geological era, portraying the earliest formations known, including the glacial period, upthrusts, mountain and valley making, rivers and lakes of the State, with relief maps and models showing formations, etc.

A Division of Archaeology.

Pennsylvania should be well known by a collection from the contents of the mounds that have been unearthed, which tells of an early people inhabiting the State, antedating the American Indian. These implements of history, arts and crafts should be gathered at the museum, that our present and future generations could have a more definite knowledge of these early peoples.

Following this, the American Indian collection should be arranged and preserved. There are several good collections in the State, now obtainable, and in a few years these may be scattered and lost. They should be arranged to show their manner of living arts and crafts in war and peace, monuments, implements, inscriptions, relics, dwellings, clothing and food obtained from their surroundings, each properly shown in its relation to the other. Maps of their paths over the State; origin and meaning of the many Indian names of cities and towns, rivers, etc., throughout the State. Then follow with the customs and arts of the early European settlers, and the implements of their arts, crafts, etc. This influence was the nucleus around which the moulding of our early history of the State was formed. The early publications, German, etc., plates, and the hand printing should be shown.

There are historic relics of war and peace in which the State is very rich. Many good collections are scattered throughout the State, and should find a home in the Museum. There are also many unmarked historical spots in each county of the State which should not be neglected. Either the State or historical society of each county, should see that there are authentically and intelligently labeled, even if only with a small bronze tablet or a boulder, so that they may not be lost.

Useful and Fine Arts.

Pennsylvania from its earliest times has produced articles from the looms, print shops and forge. The museum wishes to make a fine collection of the articles, including those of exquisite make of the present day. These will include printing, bookbinding and photography; textiles in cotton, wool, silk and linen; pottery, glass, terra cotta, porcelain, mosaics, ceramics and glazier. Articles of metals, bronze, leather and wood. All of these articles to be of Pennsylvania make only.

There are many persons in Fayette county having relics pertaining to Pennsylvania, which they wish to preserve for posterity; there is no more fitting place to preserve and display these to the public than at the State Museum at Harrisburg, where they will be well cared for and displayed. The Museum will be glad to receive any such material, either permanently or as a loan, in the following subjects: Flora, fauna, minerals, geology, archaeology, arts and history. These should be well labeled, with the name of the specimen, location or any brief historical incident connected with it; the name and address of the donor should also accompany it. Address: State Museum, Harrisburg, Pa.

Morrison Wants Money Back He Invested in Stock.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 29.—Averring that the company failed to keep its promise regarding stock which he had purchased, Lewis W. Morrison, Wednesday entered suit against Paul Manay, W. M. Dunn and C. H. Blankney for $6,500, with interest. He sets forth in his filed statement that in 1907 he was induced to invest $6,500 in the stock of the Dunn-Connelville Coke Company with the understanding that if he wished to dispose of the stock at the end of one year the defendant would take it off his hands at the original price, with interest.

At the expiration of one year, he says, he desired to convert it into money, but the company held him back a year, promising to redeem the stock a year later. He avers that they never have taken it and that he desires to part with it under the original agreement.

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can

PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp.

Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance,

"When I began using Danderine my hair would not become very limp."

Another from Newark, N. J.,

"I have been using Danderine regularly. When first started to use it had very little effect, but after a few weeks it began to grow thick and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other hair preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this coupon to us.

DISCOVERS AMERICA

CHAPTER XI.
SHAKESPEARE'S MASTER.

LORD LOVELAND's hand was to give a wide berth to the democrat, if chance the democrat, threw him near them, with the exception of "Tommy," who for him as a soldier were in class by themselves, a class in which he recognized humanity that touched his own. He did not love ugliness or shabbiness, which as like as not meant microbes. But he had come down so near to the depths of reality tonight that he had no sense of his own superiority or inclination to shrink away when the man's hands touched him as they took the rescued animal.

"I came along in the nick of time," said Loveland, "and I like dogs, I thought I could just do it, and I did."

Loveland, always polite to inferiors unless overmastered by rage, looked at the beach as if it were the first comer's property.

"If you don't mind I'll sit down," he said.

The shabby one laughed. "I ain't paid for my lodgin's," said he, "and if I had you'd be welcome after what you done. You can have me for a doorman if you like."

"Thanks," said Loveland, laughing too. "I don't need a doorman. If it was an overcoat now—"

"You could have in in if you weren't twice the size for it and if Anthony Comstock wouldn't run me in if he saw what I've got on underneath. But I guess you wouldn't have to wish twice for a coat if 'twas in your part."

"My part?" repeated Val.

"If the piece you're in called for it. But, say, do you want anything out of me? 'Cause if you do you can have it. If you're a journalist out on a night stink and what you're fishin' for is the history of my life I'm on for Shakespeare's sake—any form you like, sad or gay, moral lesson or otherwise."

"Hang journalists!"

"Think so? Well, millionaire, then, wein' how the poor live. You look the swell all right."

"Thank you. Wish I felt as I look them."

"You'd make the Goulds and Vanderbilts' crowd look like visitors if you hadn't forgot your overcoat."

"I left it at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel—"

"Say, if that ain't like me!" drawled the man, the twinkle of moonlight striking a humorous glint in his eye. "Kind of absentminded. I left my Sunday suit just that way at the White House last week, where I'd been spending Saturday to Monday with my friend Val T."

"You think I'm lying?" said Loveland, with curiosity rather than resentment. "They turned me out of the hotel because I couldn't pay for my dinner."

"Had you eat it?"

"No, I wish now I had."

"I believe you. Whewew—just to eat once at the Waldorf. You ain't a New York, are you?"

"No; I'm no Englishman," Loveland answered quickly.

"Oo, but you're a swell lookin' emigrant! I ain't a New Yorker myself—not by birth. I was a hayseed till I turned shebeen, workin' on my step-father's farm—mean old skidblint—but I couldn't see my way to cuttin' till my mother was gone. Then I footed it to New York—sixty miles—chuck full of hope and nothin' else unless boner."

"A regular Mark Tapley," said Val.

"Never played the part. In private life my name's Bill Williams. Some switches round to Willing Bill, because I generally do my day's work without howlin', I blow into New York without attractin' much notice, and that's nineteen years ago; and I haven't attracted much since; that's a fact. But you may do better. Don't be discouraged by sethink if your game's square, and I bet it is, or you wouldn't be in the dog savin' business. What is your lay, anyhow? Excuse the liberty."

"Retrieving my fortune," said Val after a moment's reflection.

"You can see me one better. Mine's to make yet, and I'm no kid like you. I won't see thirty-eight again. I'm an artist. But New York didn't wake up to my talent. Maybe I've been too versatile. That never did pay. The line I'd mapped out was palatin' pictures, but my chance was slow comin'. Had to take what I could get on the way along, supin' sandwichin', barkin'."

"Eh, what?" broke in Loveland.

"You don't savvy? Oh, supin' in theaters. There's several, especially one in the Bowery, wouldn't 'a' been complete, without me for years till I got the chuck like you did at the Waldorf. I've always kind of hovered around the profession, though I don't say I'm proud of my career as a Barker in the dime-museum, you know. There was money in the business, though. If the freaks hadn't caught on that I had the heart of a soft-boiled egg. Besides, my voice ain't an automobile horn, and barkin' for a couple of reasons stove a hole in my top note. One of my old goss switched me on to a job palatin' freak showboards, and I'd 'a' been at it yet if freaks didn't last too long. Once you've put them on the boards there they are. At present my specialty's meenors."

Val looked blank, thinking of meenors.

to your stamps. I know just how you feel. I'm always chucklin' my last cent away on some poor dicky-bird, thinkin' it'll be all right tomorrow and what's the odds."

"What about food?" asked Loveland. "Can we run to it?" and he glanced at the colts in his hand.

"Keeps the change. Well eat for nothing. Now's our time to join the bread line."

Again Val looked blank, and again it was necessary for Bill Willing—guide, philosopher and friend—to explain. There were said to be two very important lines drawn every night in New York for the benefit of the poor, the bread line and the bread line. Each was drawn in a public square, the former in Herald, the latter in Madison, and both were traced by the finger of charity.

"Why Shakespeare?" Loveland cut in.

"Oh, there's a—girl in that story—actress in the theater where I stayed—a real actress, mind you, a fascinator from Fascinatingville. Why, Val, so much as looked at me I don't know, but she did. I was near twice her age, and I would have been playin' the gals, hadn't got me the sack and she, and I drifted apart. I never wrote, though she asked me to. I know 'twas better not for her. But you see why they was twice the size for it and Anthony Comstock wouldn't run me in if he saw what I've got on underneath. But I guess you wouldn't have to wish twice for a coat if 'twas in your part."

"My part?" repeated Val.

"If the piece you're in called for it. But, say, do you want anything out of me? 'Cause if you do you can have it. "Had to take what I could get on the way along, supin' sandwichin', barkin'."

"My castle's full of drafts, too," Loveland humored him.

"So you came over here to get out of 'em? Wish I could invite you to my hotel where I hang out when I'm not at my country place, but the trouble is to see the color of your money or you don't see the color of their beds."

"How much is it for a room?" asked Loveland.

"Oh, a room! I don't run to a room, and more over inclined to look on the experience as an adventure or a which he would laugh tomorrow night. But he did not intend to forget Bill Willing when he forgot the troubles through which Bill was his pilot. He must do something for the poor chap, he said to himself, and glowed with hot coffee and a sense of warm generosity.

Loveland was refreshed, too, and more over inclined to look on the experience as an adventure or a which he would laugh tomorrow night. But he did not intend to forget Bill Willing when he forgot the troubles through which Bill was his pilot. He must do something for the poor chap, he said to himself, and glowed with hot coffee and a sense of warm generosity.

Shakespeare, who had shared his master's roll and lapped the last spoonful of coffee, was an incredibly small black animal of somewhat moth-eaten texture, who in form rather resembled a grasshopper, but his gentle eyes, curiously like his master's, beamed with affection.

"We approach the castle doors, me lord," grandiloquently announced Bill, little guessing that his festing way of address was that to which Loveland was accustomed from his inferior.

"If there's the price of two birds you must have one," said Loveland.

"Thank you. You're the real stuff," returned Bill, gratitude in his voice. "But I'm O.K. where I am. You stick

FEAR REVOLT IS READY TO BREAK.

Clashes in Berlin Between Police and Workmen Continue.

DRASTIC MEASURES IN FORCE

Authorities Are Stumped by Demonstrations in the Mobit Section. Twelve Hundred Policemen Kept in Disturbed District.

Berlin, Sept. 20.—Rioting between the police and strikers in the Mobit quarter was resumed early this morning. Many revolver shots were fired from the windows by strikers or their sympathizers. The police returned the fire and a regular fusillade followed.

When the police withdrew from the quarter the rioters made a big bonfire of bedding and wood, which had been saturated with petroleum. The fire-brigade was called out to extinguish the fire. Over one hundred policemen were injured.

The clashes between strikers and the police are going on less than the sign of a grave revolution. They are of immeasurably more gravity than mere attacks by a mob on the police.

This was the import of an official communication by Inspector Von Jagow to the government. Von Jagow declares that the revolutionary character of the disturbance was plainly seen in the systematic plan worked out by the strikers.

The Social Democrats have issued a statement to the effect that the members of their party have nothing to do with the trouble. They attribute the disturbances to the harsh and brutal attitude of the police toward the lower classes.

Police Insist Movement Is Organized.

On the other hand the police authorities declare that the disturbances show every sign of having been well planned, the rioters acting in many instances as if a word of command had been given.

Twelve hundred police have been detailed for service in the disturbed district.

Instances of the severity of the police in handling the mob are countless. In one case a boy of sixteen who had no part in the trouble, but was returning to his home from confirmation, became mixed up in a crowd of rioters and one of his arms was almost lopped off by a blow from a sword. Parts of some blowpipes were covered with pools of blood. The slightest restraints meant being cut down.

The damage done in the strike district is roughly estimated at $150,000.

SUNDAY IS THE BOY

Evangelist Lauded in Song by New Castle (Pa.) Business Girls.

New Castle, Pa., Sept. 20.—Humanitarians have little right to existence, according to Evangelist Billy Sunday in a sermon upon "Work."

He said: "We must work to grow strong and to keep in good health. The church that fails to work die, and the church member, who won't work shrivels his soul until he loses it. I can skin the saloons from Dan to Beersheba and from hell to breakfast and back again," he exclaimed when investigating against the liquor traffic.

Fair hundred business girls took lunch at the Young Women's Christian association, then marched to the Tabernacle where seats were reserved. They entered, singing:

"Sunday, Sunday, Sunday is the boy from Chicago, Illinois, Sunday Sunday."

SMITH VERDICT IS NOT GUILTY.

The latter was handcuffed and nervously fumbled a handkerchief. His hand turned from side to side, as if he realized his position.

The jury fled as he took his seat. Clerk Earl Huston proceeded to call the roll, after which he said:

"Gentlemen, please arise. The prisoner will arise and face the jury." Smith was aided in arising by one of his counsel, T. P. Jones, and would have been unable to stand had it not been for his assistance.

"Gentlemen, how say you, is the prisoner guilty or not guilty."

About half of the jurors answered, in a low voice, "Not guilty, by reason of insanity."

Smith straightened up, and without raising his eyes from the floor, bowed, and took his seat.

As counsel for the defense hurried forward and shook hands with the jurors, he was led back to the jail.

The jury was dismissed by Judge Van Swearingen after they had been complimented on their patience and thanked for their time and trouble. He announced that an order had been made, giving them five dollars a day during the trial. After receiving their money at the County Treasurer's office, most of them left for home, though some were forced to remain over night. All were glad the trial was over.

Smith is reported cheerful in his cell today. He seems in high good humor over the outcome of his trial.

"I put one over on the jury, that's all," Smith is reported to have said to a friend this morning.

What disposition will be made of Smith has not yet been taken up but he will likely be sent to Dixonton as soon as the proper legal requirements are gone through.

Promptly at 2:30 yesterday Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen began reading his charge to the jury, and talked for just one hour and one minute, after which the 12 men were instructed to retire and make up their verdict.

He outlined the murders and facts leading up to the killing of Daniel Porter Smith, father of Frank and Evans W. Mozer, a brother-in-law of the prisoner. The judge reminded the jury that 40 lay-witnesses had been called on the part of the defense, nearly all of whom testified of matters that caused them to think the defendant not of sound mind. He said that in most cases, the opinions given were not based entirely on his action but also on the looks. The testimony of the physicians should be given careful consideration, he said, and restated their definition of the different forms of insanity.

In rebuttal, he said, 75 witnesses were called by the Commonwealth, nearly all of whom testified that they never heard the defendant was unsound or saw any actions that would lend them to believe his mind was unbalanced.

He referred to the visit of Dr. Patterson to the county jail, and added that this testimony was introduced for the purpose of showing the defendant to be following insanity.

"There is contradiction on both sides as to the sanity of the defendant," Judge Van Swearingen said, "and you must give to them the consideration to which you think they are entitled. It is the duty of the defendant to satisfy the jury by a fair preponderance of the testimony that he is insane, and this does not mean the large number of witnesses, but the testimony in which the jury have the most confidence.

"A doubt or even a reasonable doubt is not sufficient grounds for an acquittal.

"If you find that he acted on a morbid impulse from what Mozer told him, then he is not guilty. The test is whether the defendant at the time he committed the act, had sufficient capacity to know right from wrong."

"You must be convinced of the legal presumption against him that he is sane or by the preponderance of the testimony that he is insane."

Assistant District Attorney George Patterson, who prosecuted the case in the interests of the State, received the verdict in a sensible manner, but was rather disappointed as he believed today that Smith was following insanity before the jury.

This morning he made this statement: "We put the responsibility on the jury. It is their mistake; not ours."

County Detective McFeth, who was the prosecutor of Smith, said he was satisfied if the people were. That they are not is evidenced by the general talk among citizens about town today.

W. Johnson stated this morning that the verdict was absolutely right under the evidence and Smith's present condition. He concluded, "I have known him practically all of his life and have always expected he would do something of that kind. He is not insane, but his mind is off." Mr. Johnson said the other members of counsel for the defense are of the same opinion.

Smith slept very good last night and was up at 5 o'clock this morning. His spirit has shown a remarkable change in the last 12 hours and he混了 with the other prisoners, discussing his case and receiving their congratulations.

He was delighted with the verdict and thanked his wife and attorneys again and again for "sticking to him." Before retiring he said there were circumstances in the case not brought out at the trial but refused to disclose them.

Though the verdict was against him, Assistant District Attorney George

French Method of Developing the Bust

Mrs. DuBarre Explains How the Bust May Be Developed 2 to 8 Inches in 30 Days.

"I am explaining for the first time to the ladies of America," says Madame DuBarre, "the French method of developing the bust. It is much more effective, the results appear much more quickly, the breasts become more firm, plump and symmetrical, the method is more simple, the effects are lasting, and altogether beyond comparison with the results produced here."

You know the French people have the development of the bust and form down to a science.

"By this French method, the breasts may be developed from 2 to 8 inches in 30 days. This applies to women of almost any age, from young girls to middle aged women, nothing that is absolutely not developed at all, or has grown weak and flabby, and hangs, no matter from what cause."

"I will only be too glad to tell any woman who is interested what this simple French method is, if she will enclose a 2 cent stamp to repay for the postage. I will send an illustrated book with explanation."

"We suggest to our lady readers that they write to Madame DuBarre for particulars of this remarkable French method, enclose 2 cents in stamps for postage, and send to Madame DuBarre, Suite 2084, Quinlan Building, Chicago, Ill."

PAID FOR VOTE.

Holisaw, a Democrat, Admits Getting $2,500 For Lorimer Vote.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—State Senator D. W. Holisaw of Joliet, Ill., one of the fifty-three Democrats who helped elect William Lorimer United States senator, took the witness stand before the Lorimer investigating committee and testified that after he had voted for Lorimer he received $2,500, and that he "supposed the money was paid because of his vote."

Senator Holisaw, who until recently was a banker in his home town and had some prominence in the Baptist denomination, was the second witness to be heard by the committee and the second legislator to tell the committee that money was paid because of a vote for the junior senator from Illinois.

Facts and Figures That Simplify

The Silk Buying Question

We like criticism—especially the kind that shows us where we can better a thing. Some people would call it "brick bats" and feel hurt when it landed. When our defects are pointed out there is a feeling of gratefulness for the opportunity. We could talk a whole lot about criticism, but we think you'd rather hear more about the silks in the sale.

Sale That Started Wednesday

The success of our sale is due a whole lot to criticism. Think it was about five years ago that we discovered a better silk than anything we ever had. A silk expert showed us the error and how easy one may be deceived. Through his criticism we have since had better silks than Connellsville ever saw in any other store. By exercising more vigilance than ever before these silks are superior to all others at a like price. Our sale is proceeding under a shower of bouquets, but we'll welcome any criticism that will make for betterment.

One of Our Best Values

65c and 85c Silks at 49c and 59c Yard.

3,000 yards were purchased, part of which was sent to the Uniontown store. We secured these silks under the most favorable price conditions. The patterns are more than pleasing to the enthusiastic throng that purchased yesterday. The quality is better than any silks elsewhere similarly priced. Exclusive, one pattern only is a feature much appreciated.

THE SALE OF SILKS CONTINUES UNTIL SATURDAY.

A list of qualities and prices was printed in Tuesday's and Wednesday's papers. Fine trimmings to match all silks.
